

Job applicant privacy notice

Data controller: Capital Property & Construction Consultants Ltd, info@capitalpcc.co.uk or via post Nikon House, 45 Silver Street, Enfield, EN1 3EF

As part of any recruitment process, Capital PCC collects and processes personal data relating to job applicants. Capital PCC is committed to being transparent about how it collects and uses that data and to meeting its data protection obligations.

What information does Capital PCC collect?

Capital PCC collects a range of information about you. This includes list the appropriate points and expand on them as necessary:

- your name, address and contact details, including email address and telephone number;
- details of your qualifications, skills, experience and employment history;
- information about your current level of remuneration, including benefit entitlements;
- whether or not you have a disability for which Capital PCC needs to make reasonable adjustments during the recruitment process;
- information about your entitlement to work in the UK; and
- equal opportunities monitoring information, including information about your ethnic origin, sexual orientation, health and religion or belief.]

Capital PCC collects this information in a variety of ways. For example, data might be contained in application forms, CVs or resumes, obtained from your passport or other identity documents, or collected through interviews or other forms of assessment, including online tests.

Capital PCC will also collect personal data about you from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers, information from employment background check providers and information from criminal records checks. Capital PCC will seek information from third parties only once a job offer to you has been made and will inform you that it is doing so.

Data will be stored in a range of different places, including on your application record, in HR management systems and on other IT systems (including email).

Why does Capital PCC process personal data?

Capital PCC needs to process data to take steps at your request prior to entering into a contract with you. It also needs to process your data to enter into a contract with you.

In some cases, Capital PCC needs to process data to ensure that it is complying with its legal obligations. For example, it is required to check a successful applicant's eligibility to work in the UK before employment starts.

Capital PCC has a legitimate interest in processing personal data during the recruitment process and for keeping records of the process. Processing data from job applicants allows Capital PCC to manage the recruitment process, assess and confirm a candidate's suitability for employment and decide to whom to offer a job. Capital PCC may also need to process data from job applicants to respond to and defend against legal claims.

Where Capital PCC relies on legitimate interests as a reason for processing data, it has considered whether or not those interests are overridden by the rights and freedoms of employees or workers and has concluded that they are not.

Capital PCC processes health information if it needs to make reasonable adjustments to the recruitment process for candidates who have a disability. This is to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

For some roles, Capital PCC is obliged to seek information about criminal convictions and offences. Where Capital PCC seeks this information, it does so because it is necessary for it to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

If your application is unsuccessful, Capital PCC will keep your personal data on file in case there are future employment opportunities for which you may be suited. Capital PCC will ask for your consent before it keeps your data for this purpose, and you are free to withdraw your consent at any time.

Who has access to data?

Your information will be shared internally for the purposes of the recruitment exercise. This includes members of the HR and recruitment team, interviewers involved in the recruitment process, managers in the business area with a vacancy if access to the data is necessary for the performance of their roles.

Capital PCC will not share your data with third parties, unless your application for employment is successful and it makes you an offer of employment. Capital PCC will then share your data with former employers to obtain references for you, employment background check providers to obtain necessary background checks and the Disclosure and Barring Service to obtain necessary criminal records checks.

Capital PCC will not transfer your data outside the European Economic Area.

How does Capital PCC protect data?

Capital PCC takes the security of your data seriously. It has internal policies and controls in place to ensure that your data is not lost, accidentally destroyed, misused or disclosed, and is not accessed except by our employees in the proper performance of their duties.

For how long does Capital PCC keep data?

If your application for employment is unsuccessful, Capital PCC will hold your data on file for the duration of the recruitment process deleting your information if you have not been offered a role with us.

If your application for employment is successful, personal data gathered during the recruitment process will be transferred to your personnel file and retained during your employment. The periods for which your data will be held will be provided to you in a new privacy notice.

Your rights

As a data subject, you have a number of rights. You can:

- access and obtain a copy of your data on request;
- require Capital PCC to change incorrect or incomplete data;
- require Capital PCC to delete or stop processing your data, for example where the data is no longer necessary for the purposes of processing;
- object to the processing of your data where Capital PCC is relying on its legitimate interests as the legal ground for processing; and
- ask Capital PCC to stop processing data for a period if data is inaccurate or there is a dispute about whether or not your interests override Capital PCC's legitimate grounds for processing data.

If you would like to exercise any of these rights, please contact Gemma Gatting, gemmagatting@capitalpcc.co.uk or Nikon House, 45 Silver Street, Enfield, EN1 3EF. You can make a subject access request by completing Capital PCC's form for making a subject access request.

If you believe that Capital PCC has not complied with your data protection rights, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

What if you do not provide personal data?

You are under no statutory or contractual obligation to provide data to Capital PCC during the recruitment process. However, if you do not provide the information, Capital PCC may not be able to process your application properly or at all.

Automated decision-making

Recruitment processes are not based solely on automated decision-making.
